The prospectus

Topic: which type of economy or type of government is best suited to the people (Capitalism, socialism, or mixture of both)

Purposes: I choose this topic because currently, we are competing with China, which they have a different form of government, so people have had arguments about the pros and cons of the future society and how to be on the most progressive society in the world. Now we can distinguish the differences of government that would be best suited to American society by using historical work and academic journals to help to differentiate the causes and effects of both societies.

Thesis: The mixture of Capitalism and socialism can enhance society to be centralized by having a government to reduce the gaps from the free market (Capitalist), which helps the countries moving forward by regarding social gaps in society.

Audience: the topic provides the ambiguity of government forming, and the audiences are political parties, all people in America, and the world. The topic helps us clarify the relation and equality between gaps of social classes, and which type of government helps us establish the society the most depending on social situations and backgrounds of each country.

Background:

"The Communist Manifesto" and "The gospel of wealth" help us approach the topic directly to the point that Capitalism is more likely to make more significant gaps between social classes; bourgeois played the biggest in forming and creating wealth for the nation, but they need people to work for them. As the country maintains more wealth, the lower class has less chance to become one of the bourgeois. Capitalism might not be an answer to this topic; I think the mixture of both would slightly be the light we are finding for the future.

Procedures:

I think I will use secondary sources as primary in this essay because we can interpret what is supposed to use and write in the essay. Due academic journals are secondary sources, so that we will use most of that.

Limitation and Qualifier: When we talk about individuality and privilege of people, we might ignore the freedom to pursue whatever they want, so this might be the point of opposition that we can make and assume about the pros of Capitalism.

Source Evaluation Worksheet

Title: The Communist Manifesto

Author: Karl Marx

Date: It is an old source, as it was republished in a collection of book, "A World of Ideas" in 2017th and 2019th edition

Publisher: Lee A. Jacobus

There are information such as Communism and Capitalism in the textbook which helps me navigate the information: it provides background about how good Communism and socialism are related.

The title, "The Communist Manifesto," can describe things about the pros of being in the communist society, leading the point of view about Communists are a villain in our history, so we will open to new kinds of thinking like a communist.

Reading source: Capitalism is great, but it has cons such inequality of wealth and how people got access to education. In another way, Communist helps to establish an education system and reduce social class between people. Audience: Everyone who believes in equality.

Support: The arguments are mainly supporting Communism in a sad tone and informative way. By not make Communism too a big of problems, he put some cons in the text to clarify the understanding between texts and the world nowadays, and I'm not sure about the resolution

Supporting Statement: "The bourgeoisie has stripped of its halo every occupation hitherto honored and looked up to with reverent awe. It has converted the physician, the lawyer, the priest, the poet, the man of science, into its paid wage laborers."

Source: a source appears reliable and trustworthy related to current events nowadays, which society impacted the people who have less education and technical skills. By the facts, I'm from the family of immigrants who wants to pursue higher education, so I would rely on the fact I'm not rich.

Language: it is easy to understand even though it is an old source of information, but it is undoubtedly reliable and understandable. He uses language that refers to people who were suffered from the system by the capitalists, which is directly against Communism

Quote:

"Freeman and slave, partisan, and plebian, lord and serf, guide-master and journeyman, in a word, oppressor and oppressed, stood in constant opposition to one another, carried on uninterrupted, now open fight, a fight that each time ended, either in a revolutionary reconstitution of society at large, or in the common ruin of the contending classes." (Marx p.338)

"The bourgeoisie has subjected the country to the rule of the towns. It has created enormous cities, has greatly increased the urban population as compared with the rural and has thus rescued a considerable part of the population from the idiocy of rural life." (Marx p.341)
